Welcome, NYC At-Home-Dads & Involved Fathers!

Meet other New York City Stay At Home Dads, Part-time at home dads, work from home dads, freelance dads, and involved fathers in and around NYC to socialize and interact with other guys who enjoy spending time with their kids during the day.

Our primary goal is to form an active community of involved dads during the week while the rest of the world is working, so we can take advantage of what the city has to offer without the crowds & within a tight budget. This enables us to have ample time in the evenings and weekends for our family bonding.

Organized meet up events are at least once a week at a local park, museum, playgym, children's venue, restaurant, or if lucky -someone's playroom/lounge in their building.

There are not enough resources, support groups, or services for dads in NYC. This group is the pioneer and more for dads in NYC!

Additionally, check out our BLOG SITE to read about PLAYGROUP EXPERIENCES, RELEVANT NEWS, EVENTS & MORE: <http://www.nycdadsgroup.com/>

Let's Reduce Energy Consumption and Costs!

I'm passionate about making America greener and more energy efficient -- one building at a time. New NYC laws require many building owners to benchmark their building energy consumption and retro-commission using upgraded lighting systems, lighting controls, HVAC and motor systems and building controls. Building owners, property managers, facility managers and those interested in increased energy efficient solutions should join us as an active Energy Saver. We will share knowledge about both challenges building owners face and the best and proven solutions including: energy-saving technologies, economic incentives, proven products, renewable energy and case histories.

@ Diana: Me too!

@ Harry: Burning DVDs AND trading them is piracy and isn't a good idea. We should respect the creators of original content and only trade ORIGINAL items -- so lets only bring original DVDs to trade.

Welcome, London Java Programmers!

The series of meetup that we'll be organised here is about finding a few passionate java developers that want to learn new technologies or gain more experience with them... not only from the books but taking action and actually developing something real.

Always looking for the newest technologies to implement our solutions we are completely open to new ideas (this is an agile group if it wasn't clear yet).

Tredart is a j2ee distributed application on financial spread betting and it is our reference project.

Everyone is welcome, we need a bit of Java and a lot of enthusiasm so if you are curious come along and let's develop something cool together!

Please consider joining if you're an exercise evasion expert, but must get in better shape to improve your present/ future mental & physical health. If you've failed at it alone, let us support & "bully" each other into it. Let's MAKE each other exercise!

I hate exercise, but I have to do it. I go from office chair to living room couch. I must exercise to improve the quality of my present and future life and health. I shouldn't quit. I think there are lots of people out there so let's support and bully each other into better health. I'll make you exercise and you make me exercise!

Welcome to our website!

Dear Friends:

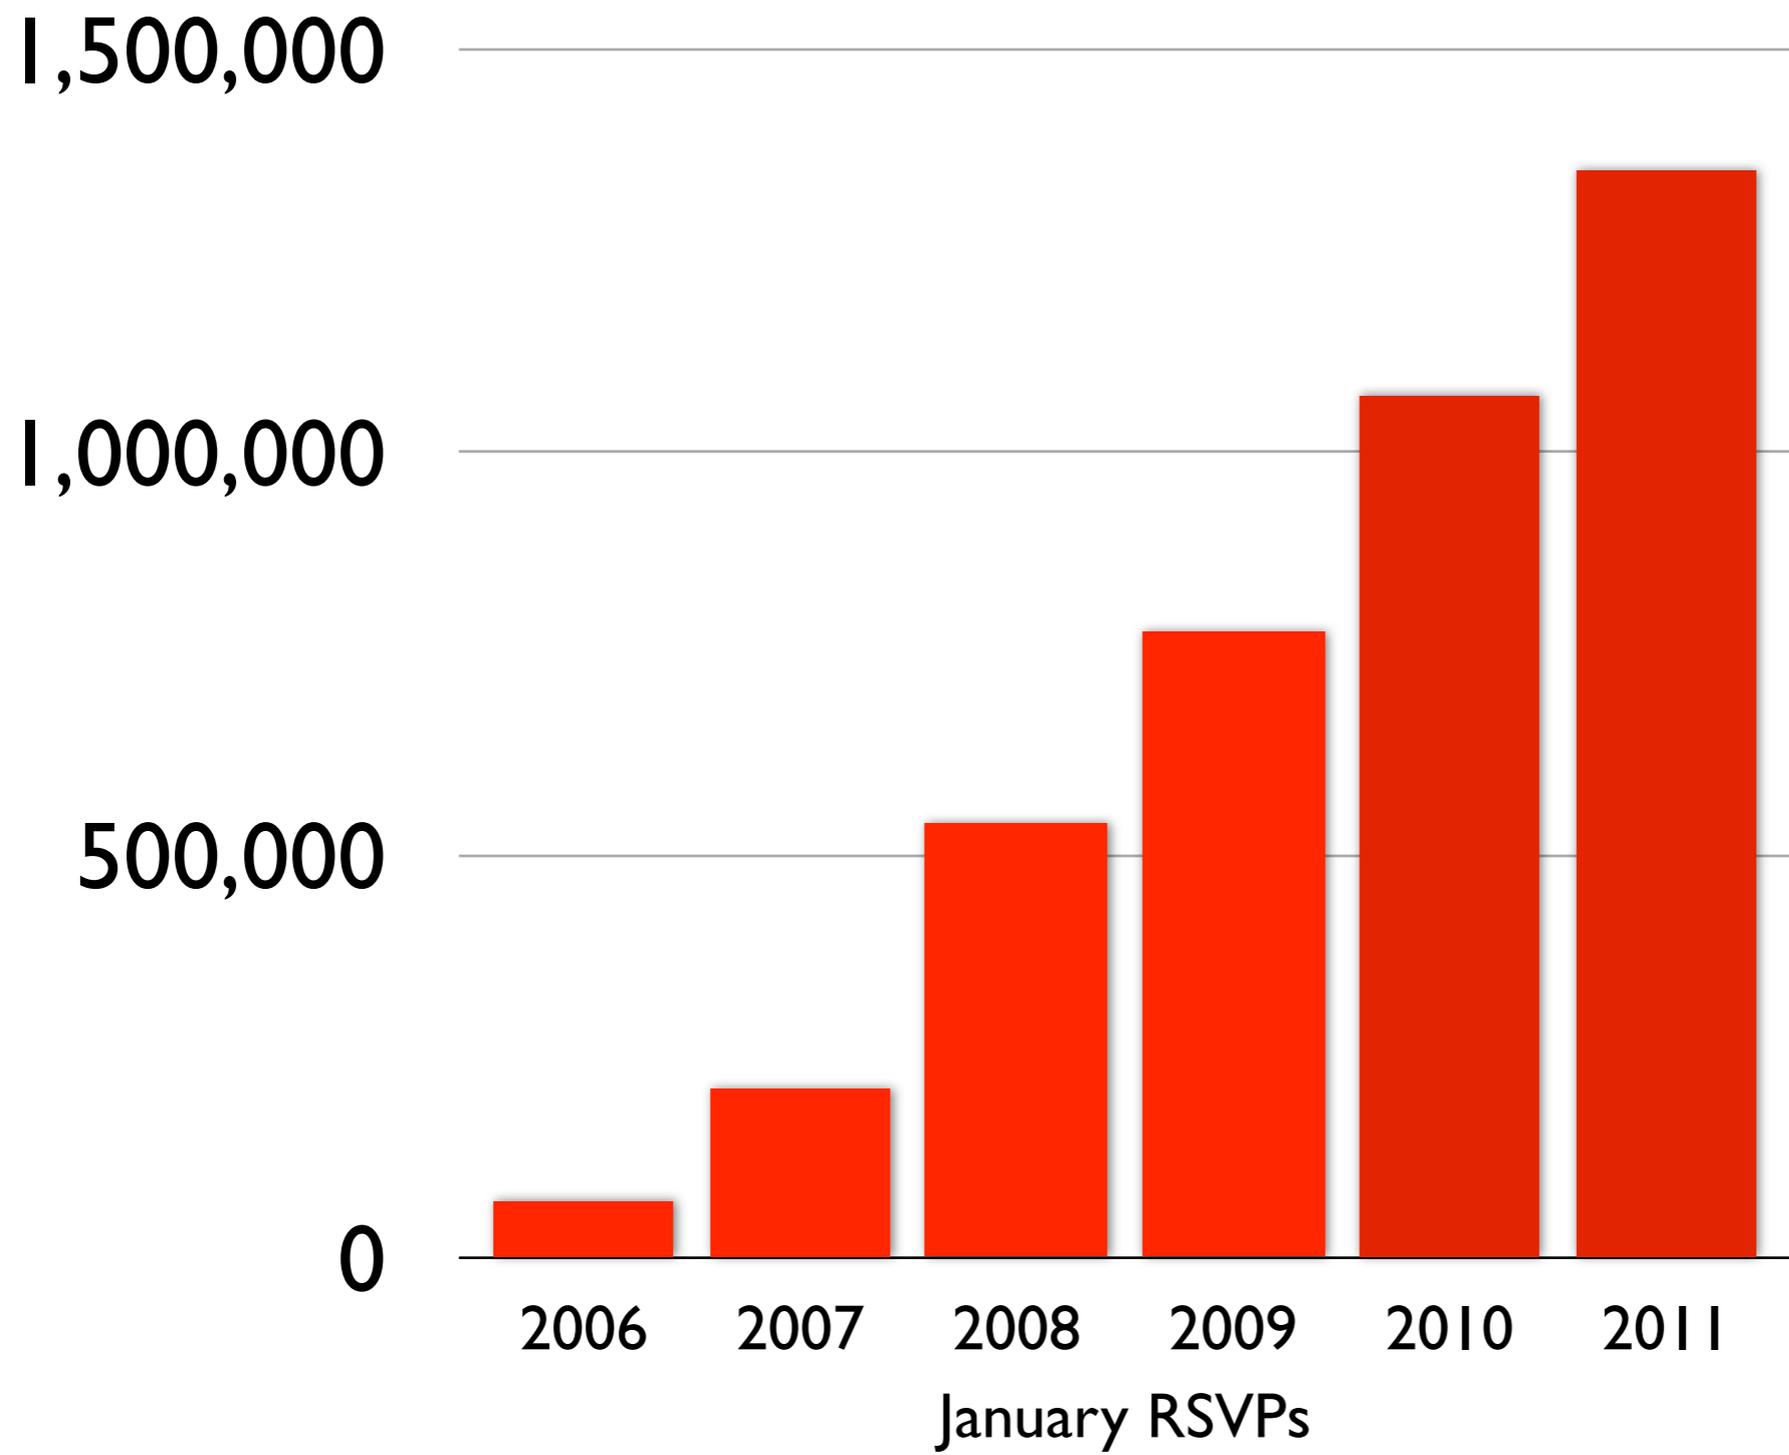

Welcome to our Web site. I want to introduce myself as a Democratic candidate for U.S. Senator in the 2004 Democratic primary.

In the past two years, our nation has lost its way. Our leaders offer obscene tax cuts for the wealthy at the expense of struggling families and the poor. Millions of Americans have lost their jobs, their health care and their hope. We need to change direction in Washington and live up to our promise as a country. If you share my outrage at our current course, and my determination to change it, then I ask you to join me in this most important fight.

We hope to be hearing from you soon to learn more about the concerns of voters in your area and your views on the 2004 Senate race.

Sincerely,
